Helmut Rohde GmbH

35 YEARS ROHDE. 35 YEARS OF INNOVATION.

Description:

Since the company was founded in 1982, ROHDE has been committed to customer and product benefits and offers solutions in all areas of heat treatment. Benefit from smooth processes and efficient workflows when it comes to the consultation as well as the development, construction and manufacture of your furnace.

Our extensive product range comprising standard furnaces provides well-engineered models that suit almost any of your applications and are available at short notice. The wide range of products and varied options allow for specially adapting each standard furnace to your process.

ROHDE has a competent team for the development of special heat treatment solutions if our standard products do not suit your process. Individual heat treatment solutions are designed in collaboration with the customer. On request, our technicians install and commission them on site.

This means that we can always find the perfect solution.
